Theory & Practice of Risk Assessment

Who Is This Course Designed For?

Any personnel who need to be aware of hazards and risks and how to work through the process of risk assessment. It combines the background to why there is a need to undertake risk assessment together with actual practice of risk assessment.

Business Benefits include

- > A variety of personnel can be involved in the risk assessment process thus increasing awareness of hazards and reducing the level of risk.
- > Better understanding of the health and safety issues within working environments and how to address and document hazards and risk with relevant control measures.

About the Course

- > Duration: half day
- > Format: Face-to-Face or remote online learning
- > Refresher training recommended every 3 years

What Do I Do Next?

If you would like a course exclusively run for your employees, at your business premises, we would be happy to arrange this for you. Prices for a closed course are available on application.

Please call 01522 690 237 or email Elizabeth Turner at elizabeth.turner@pibrm.com to discuss further or book a place on one of our open courses.

What Is Covered?

Aimed to be interactive with personnel sharing their own experience of the practical aspects faced whilst addressing the issue of risk assessment whether it be identifying what is a 'hazard' or trying to document the risk assessment. The course also provides example case studies enabling personnel to identify why risk assessments were not 'suitable and sufficient'.

Objectives:

- > To enable personnel to have an understanding of the risk assessment process.
- > To enable personnel to be aware of the rationale for the conduct of risk assessments.
- > To enable personnel to apply the learning and compile a risk assessment project linked to their own working environment

The course is assessed via a 15 question test paper and the compilation of a risk assessment project related to candidates own working environment
